Tattoo Aftercare

You spent a lot of money, time and pain getting your ink just the way you like it. The idea of it fading is a distressing one and you need to know how to care for it. The first healing period is critical to maximizing the health and appearance of your new artwork. There are numerous considerations, such as infection, inflammation, healing time, reducing redness and itching, as well as keeping the ink vibrant and well-defined. All natural Dermalere is a unique powerful formula with an abundance of potent ingredients, clinically proven to help the skin heal fast, protect against infection, reduce scarring, and promote skin renewal. Dermalere helps restore skin elasticity and speeds recovery time.

Using lotions that are too harsh for the very delicate healing skin can draw ink out of the area and cause patchiness. Dermalere is designed to be safe for sensitive skin, penetrates quickly and hydrates for a long time, while also containing anti-bacterial active ingredients. The anti-itching, anti-irritation, and fast healing properties make Dermalere the go-to choice for tattoo aftercare.

Different from many tattoo products, Dermalere is designed for multiple types of skin trauma and is beneficial to have on hand after your tattoo is healed and set. Use it for home or industrial burns, surgical scarring, stretch marks, skinfold irritation, and acne scarring.

Simply apply a thin layer and cover with plastic wrap or gauze. Apply daily or as needed.

Tips For Your New Ink

The healing and aftercare stage of your tattoo is immensely important when it comes to tattoo fading. For the first couple of weeks, the tattoo ink will need to correctly set, and therefore you should care for the ink as best as you can.

CLEANLINESS - First and foremost, cleanliness is key. A healthy well-healed tattoo will last ages. The most critical phase in your tattoo's life is the first few weeks, ensuring proper healing, and keeping it clean and free from infection. Dermalere has an abundance of natural active ingredients with antibacterial, antifungal, and antiviral properties.

SUN - Nothing fades a tattoo like the Sun's UV rays. Be sure to limit the exposure of the tattoo to the sun for the first 2-3 weeks while the ink sets and skin heals.

SCABBING - Scabbing happens as the damaged skin scabs and falls off or is peeled off and is one of the main reasons for the ink to end up patchy or faded. Dermalere's advanced hydration and fast healing are important in combatting the effects of scabbing.
